

Be careful how you characterize yourself. Don't characterize or define yourself by some temporary quality. The only single quality that should characterize us is that we are a son or daughter of God.
That fact transcends all other characteristics, including race, occupation,
physical characteristics, honors, or even religious affiliation.
